

Parts of Speech in English 英语中的词性

Choosing Interesting Adjectives - An Alternative To Using The Word 'Very' Too Often 选择有趣形容词 - 避免频繁使用“非常”这个词

Simple Adjective -简单形容词

Until The Rains Came

Once upon a time in a “very old” kingdom lived a “very old” man. He was a pleasant person but he was “very poor”. Perhaps it was because he was “very old-fashioned” and he continued to tend to his crops the way his father did, and his father before him. Nevertheless he kept to the old ways even though it had made him “very poor”.

One day it was “very rainy”, the thunder was “very loud”, and the water in the river broke the riverbanks. The water was moving “very fast” and it washed away many of the man's crops. The next day when the rain stop the man found that almost all of his crops were gone. It was “very painful” for the man to see all of his hard work just washed away. His heart sunk and a “very serious” expressions came across his face, but then he saw something “very shiny” in the mud. He got down on his knees and grabbed the object. It was a “very shiny” and “very pretty” yellow rock, but it wasn't just any rock, it was a piece of GOLD..... and there wasn't just one piece, it was everywhere. The heavy rains must of washed a ton of gold down from the mountain side.

All of a sudden the man forgot all about all of his crops. He thought to himself, “I am going to become “very rich”, all I have to do is collect all of this gold”.

Interesting Adjective - 有趣形容词

Until The Rains Came

Once upon a time in a “ancient” kingdom lived a “elderly” man. He was a pleasant person but he was “desuetude”. Perhaps it was because he was “archaic” and he continued to tend to his crops the way his father did, and his father before him. Nevertheless he kept to the old ways even though it had made him “very poor”.

One day it was “pouring”, the thunder was “deafening”, and the water in the river broke the riverbanks. The water was moving “rapidly” and it washed away many of the man's crops. The next day when the rain stop the man found that almost all of his crops were gone. It was “excruciating” for the man to see all of his hard work just washed away. His heart sunk and a “grave” expressions came across his face, but then he saw something “gleaming” in the mud. He got down on his knees and grabbed the object. It was a “gleaming” and “beautiful” yellow rock, but it wasn't just any rock, it was a piece of GOLD..... and there wasn't just one piece, it was everywhere. The heavy rains must of washed a ton of gold down from the mountain side.

All of a sudden the man forgot all about all of his crops. He thought to himself, “I am going to become “wealthy”, all I have to do is collect all of this gold”.

